The Workshop

ASIST is an intensive, hands-on course designed to help caregivers learn to identify the risk of suicide and to intervene in preventing immediate suicide risk. The training is based on adult learning principles and encourages participants to actively share in the learning process.

Since being developed in 1983 by LivingWorks in Canada, ASIST has become the foremost suicide prevention training program in the world. It is endorsed by Suicide Prevention agencies across California and the nation.

The Outcome

ASIST equips participants to respond knowledgeably and competently to persons at risk of suicide. The emphasis of ASIST is on suicide first aid - on helping a person at risk to stay safe and to seek further help.

Participants learn how to:

- Recognize invitations for help
- Determine suicide risk
- Apply an effective suicide intervention model
- Provide appropriate support
- Link people with community resources
